TRANSLATION VILLAGE PROJECT

Translation Village Project invites freelance language professionals and others working in the translation field to discuss new forms of education, production, consumption, working and living in a much more humane level.

WHO ARE YOU?

We are a few dreamy people who've been engaged with various activities on translation since our college years. We love life, nature, animals, people and the universe.

WHAT DO YOU DO AND WHY?

We've set out on a journey to learn together, produce and consume together, seek ways to live together, and to find solutions for our humanitarian and professional problems.

We are also very curious people.

We were born in this industry. Did we even have a choice? We are not sure of that yet. But we are sure that all the things we learned in the process helped us become translation professionals. Just when we said we're done, the world started changing ever faster; we got dizzy, fled the large cities and got our bearings.

There are three main benefits of working with Locallex: Good communication, quality translations, and on-time delivery without exception. These are exactly what I, as a customer, am looking for and I can say without a doubt that Locallex is one of the best agencies I have worked with.

The fact that each job is confirmed within minutes, cost is also confirmed before the job is started, and on-time delivery occurs every time provides me with peace of mind. I can be sure that the job is not missed, volume or cost is not out of range, and that I will have it when I need it, without needing to send other reminders. Congratulations to the management and translators for providing such overall quality and a professional service! I would highly recommend this agency to anyone!
